

157,573 acres. Allowable animal unit months (AUMs) would be doubled to 121,800.

Alternative 5, the IRMP with forest health emphasis, emphasizes regenerative harvesting to reduce the existing impacts of insects and disease.

Alternative 6, the IRMP with additional forest health, watershed health and wildlife habitat emphasis, places an additional emphasis on forest and watershed health along with fish and wildlife habitat. About 1,105.1 MMBF of timber would be harvested across 123,556 acres and allowable AUM's would be reduced by 50 percent.

ACTION: Notice.

SUMMARY: The Bureau of Indian Affairs (BIA) intends to file a Final Programmatic Environmental Impact Statement (FPEIS) for the proposed Navajo Nation Ten-Year Forest Management Plan with the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency, for public review and comment. The FPEIS, prepared by the BIA in cooperation with the Navajo Nation, describes alternate ways to promote the protection and sustained use of forest resources and to guide the development of multi-year implementation programs for the Navajo Nation Forestry Department. A description of the project location and of the environmental issues addressed in the FPEIS follow as supplementary information.

DATES: Comments must arrive by June 12, 2000.

ADDRESSES: If you wish to comment, you may submit written comments by any one of several methods. You may mail or hand carry comments to Harold D. FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT: Harold D. Russell, (520) 729-7228.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: The proposed action is to adopt a ten-year management plan for the Navajo Forest. The Navajo Forest lies in the Chuska Mountains and Defiance Plateau areas of the Navajo Nation, along the Arizona-New Mexico border. The area encompasses nearly 600,000 acres.

The FPEIS presents a preferred alternative, the no action alternative and three other action alternatives. Under the preferred alternative, approximately 79,500 acres out of 253,754 acres designated as commercial timberland would be harvested over the next ten years. Individual treatment areas would be limited to 100 acres or less, and harvesting would incorporate a combination of even-aged and uneven-aged management systems designed to promote more diversity in the vegetative structure. This alternative also designates 74,735 acres as Special Management Areas (SMAs), which would be excluded from commercial timberland in order to protect critical wildlife habitat and vital watershed areas, even where these SMAs are located within the most productive areas of the forest.

Timber protection activities under this alternative include fire prevention, prescribed burns, trespass control and insect and disease control. Other activities include monitoring and mitigation, in accordance with published plans, guidelines or handbooks referenced in the FPEIS.

The no action alternative continues current levels of production—approximately 88,000 acres over the next ten years, with even-aged management and without SMA's. The three other action alternatives include: (1) No timber harvesting and no SMA's; (2) even-aged management, with a lower rate of harvest—approximately 79,000 acres over the next ten years—than the no action alternative, and with SMA's; and (3) uneven-aged management, with approximately 84,400 acres to be harvested over the next ten years and without SMA's. All of the alternatives include timber protection plus monitoring and/or mitigation measures.

The FPEIS addresses the environmental issues identified during public scoping. These include timber resources, other forest resources, water resources, biological resources, air quality, cultural resources and socio-economics.
