

provided that the value of those incidental services does not exceed that of the article itself.

Canada, Italy, and Taiwan are WTO GPA countries. China is not.

Most of the individual components of the fixed lift are manufactured in Canada while most of the components of the portable lift are manufactured in China. In addition, the parts of the “high limit,” “motorized trolley,” and “manual trolley” subassemblies of the fixed lift are predominantly of Chinese origin. The “mega motor” subassembly parts of the fixed lift are of Italian and Taiwanese origin and the “drum” subassembly parts of the fixed lift are predominantly of Canadian origin. The parts of the “high limit” and “cabin port” subassemblies of the portable lift are predominantly of Chinese origin, while the parts of the “motor” subassembly of the portable lift are entirely of Italian and Taiwanese origin, and the parts of the “spool” subassembly of the portable lift are predominantly of U.S. and Canadian origin. The subassemblies are assembled in the U.S. The final assembly in the U.S. fully integrates the subassemblies and the component parts not already incorporated into a subassembly. The final assembly performed in the U.S. as described is substantial and meaningful, and requires a good deal of skill, precision, and technical expertise as well as sophisticated testing and inspection of the products. The lift subassemblies and component parts are substantially transformed as a result of the assembly operations performed in the U.S. to produce the fully functional and operational fixed and portable lifts.

Therefore, the instant fixed and portable lifts would not be considered to be the products of a foreign country or instrumentality designated pursuant to 19 U.S.C. 2511(b)(1). As to whether the fixed and portable lifts assembled in the United States qualify as “U.S.-made end product,” we encourage you to review the recent court decision in Acetris Health, LLC v. United States, 949 F.3d 719 (Fed. Cir. 2020), and to consult with the relevant government procuring agency.

HOLDING:

The subject fixed and portable lifts would not be products of a foreign country or instrumentality designated pursuant to 19 U.S.C. 2511(b)(1).

You should consult with the relevant government procuring agency to determine whether the lifts qualify as “U.S.-made end product” for purposes of the Federal Acquisition Regulations implementing the TAA.

Notice of this final determination will be given in the Federal Register, as required by 19 CFR 177.29. Any party-at-interest other than the party which requested this final determination may request pursuant to 19 CFR 177.31 that CBP reexamine the matter anew and issue a new final determination. Pursuant to 19 CFR 177.30, any party-at-interest may, within 30 days of publication of the Federal Register Notice referenced above, seek judicial review of this final determination before the Court of International Trade.

Sincerely,
Joanne R. Stump,
Acting Executive Director, Regulations and Rulings, Office of Trade.
