SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION:I. Background

Section 11(k) of the Federal Reserve Act authorizes the Board to delegate, by published order or rule and subject to the Administrative Procedure Act, any of its functions, other than those related to rulemaking or pertaining principally to monetary and credit policies, to one or more administrative law judges, members or staff of the Board, or the Reserve Banks.¹ The Board has delegated authority to Board members (in their individual capacity and as chairs of committees of the Board), Board staff, and the Federal Reserve Banks to take certain actions under the various statutes that the Board administers. The Board's Rules Regarding Delegation of Authority (delegation rules) implement section 11(k) of the Federal Reserve Act and enumerate the actions that the Board has determined to delegate. By delegating actions that do not raise significant legal, supervisory, or policy issues, the Board can respond more efficiently to applications, requests, and other matters.

The last comprehensive revision of the delegation rules was in 1991.² By revising the delegation rules as described below, the final rule enhances transparency, improves usability, and relieves burden on regulated institutions, practitioners before the Board, and Federal Reserve staff.

I. Codifications, Technical Changes, and Rescissions

Since 1991, the Board has approved several additional delegations in connection with statutory and regulatory changes and in the light of supervisory experience. Many delegations of authority are codified in the delegation rules (codified delegations), and many others have not yet been incorporated into the delegation rules (uncodified delegations). The final rule incorporates the uncodified delegations into the delegation rules. Table 1 below lists these delegations, identifies the delegatee, and notes where within the delegation rules the delegations will be incorporated:

II. Regulatory Analyses

These amendments relate solely to the agency’s organization, procedure, or practice. Accordingly, the provisions of the Administrative Procedure Act (APA) regarding notice of proposed rulemaking and opportunity for public participation are not applicable.³

Because no notice of proposed rulemaking is required to be issued, or has been issued, in connection with this rule, it is not a “rule” for purposes of the Regulatory Flexibility Act, and that act, therefore, does not apply.⁴

In accordance with the Paperwork Reduction Act of 1995 (PRA),⁵ the Board may not conduct or sponsor, and a respondent is not required to respond to, an information collection unless it displays a currently valid Office of Management and Budget control number. The Board has reviewed the proposed rule and has determined that it contains no collections of information as defined in the PRA.

Section 722 of the Gramm-Leach-Bliley Act⁶ requires the Federal banking agencies to use plain language in all proposed and final rules published after January 1, 2000. The Board has sought to present this rule in a simple and straightforward manner.

As a rule of internal agency organization, the final rule is not a “substantive rule” for the purposes of the APA; as such, the act does not require the Board to delay the effective date of the rule.⁷ Accordingly, the amendments are effective September 1, 2022.
