Abstract: The U.S. Departments of Education, Health and Human Services, Justice, and Labor (Agencies) are collaborating on a Safe Schools-Healthy Students Initiative to provide students, schools, and communities with enhanced comprehensive educational, mental health, social service, law enforcement, and, as appropriate, juvenile justice system services that promote healthy childhood development and prevent violence and alcohol and other drug abuse. These services and activities target both youth's development of the social skills and emotional resilience necessary to avoid drug use and violent behavior and the establishment of school environments that are safe, disciplined, and drug-free. The Initiative also supports youth development activities that create opportunities for students to pursue postsecondary education, apprenticeships, or jobs that help them prepare for adulthood.
