The Census Bureau conducts the Telephone Point-of-Purchase Survey (TPOPS) for the BLS as part of the Consumer Price Index program. This survey is used to develop and maintain a timely list of retail, wholesale, and service establishments at which urban consumers shop for specified items. The survey results also provide the BLS with basic expenditure estimates that are used to weight unique items that are priced. Without this information, the BLS would not have a statistically accurate list of current establishments visited by consumers, and therefore, could neither collect prices as needed for the CPI nor weight specific items properly.
