

training procedures to ensure that all personnel are adequately trained and establish standard operating procedures. Westlake will modify its Spill/Release Reporting Policy according to protocol designed by EPA.

For Clean Water Act injunctive relief, Westlake will update its Spill Prevention Control and Countermeasures Plan ensuring that all regulated tanks are included and will comply with the plan.

The consent decree resolves the civil claims in the complaint filed in the case as well as violations listed in notices of violation issued to Westlake through the date of lodging of the decree on September 17, 2010. The United States will also covenant not to sue or take administrative action under Section 3008(a) and (h) of Resource Conservation and Recovery Act, 42 U.S.C. 6928(a) and (h), against Westlake for performance of the Resource Conservation and Recovery Act injunctive relief at the polyvinyl chloride plant, conditioned upon satisfactory performance.

EPA estimates that there will be a substantial reduction in hazardous air pollutant emission under the terms of the proposed consent decree. The incinerator rerouting, along with improved Leak Detection and Repair compliance, should result reductions of vinyl chloride emissions by approximately 2,280 pounds per year, ethylene emissions by approximately 204,687 pounds per year, and 1,2 dichloroethane emissions by approximately 1,284 pounds per year.

Under the proposed consent decree, Westlake will pay a civil penalty of $800,000, of which $700,000 will be paid to the United States and $100,000 will be paid to the Commonwealth. Due to the Clean Water Act violations, $12,500 of the civil penalty will go to Oil Spill Liability Trust Fund pursuant to 33 U.S.C. 1321(s).

The Consent Decree may be examined at the Office of the United States Attorney for the Western District of Kentucky, 501 Broadway, Room 29, Paducah, Kentucky 42001. During the public comment period, the Consent Decree may also be examined on the following Department of Justice: http://www.usdoj.gov/enrd/Consent_Decrees.html.

Box 7611, U.S. Department of Justice, Washington, DC 20044-7611, or by faxing or e-mailing a request to Tonia Fleetwood, tonia.fleetwood@usdoj.gov, Fax No. (202) 514-0097, phone confirmation number (202) 514-1547. SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION:

I. Background

The Department of Labor, as part of its continuing effort to reduce paperwork and respondent (i.e., employer) burden, conducts a preclearance consultation program to provide the public with an opportunity to comment on proposed and continuing information collection requirements in accordance with the Paperwork Reduction Act of 1995 (44 U.S.C. 3506(c)(2)(A)). This program ensures that information is in the desired format, reporting burden (time and costs) is minimal, collection instruments are clearly understood, and OSHA's estimate of the information collection burden is accurate. The Occupational Safety and Health Act of 1970 (the OSH Act) (29 U.S.C. 651 et seq.) authorizes information collection by employers as necessary or appropriate for enforcement of the OSH Act or for developing information regarding the causes and prevention of occupational injuries, illnesses, and accidents (29 U.S.C. 657). The OSH Act also requires that OSHA obtain such information with minimum burden upon employers, especially those operating small businesses, and to reduce to the maximum extent feasible unnecessary duplication of effort in obtaining information (29 U.S.C. 657).

The Standard specifies two paperwork requirements. The following sections describe who uses the information collected under each requirement, as well as how they use it. The purpose of the requirements is to reduce workers' risk of death or serious injury by ensuring that manlifts are in safe operating condition.

Periodic Inspections and Records (paragraph (e)). This provision requires that each manlift be inspected at least once every 30 days and it also requires that limit switches shall be checked weekly. The manlift inspection is to cover at least the following items: steps; step fastenings; rails; rail supports and fastenings; rollers and slides; belt and belt tension; handholds and fastenings; floor landings; guardrails; lubrication; limit switches; warning signs and lights; illumination; drive pulley; bottom (boot) pulley and clearance; pulley supports; motor; driving mechanism; brake; electrical switches; vibration and misalignment; and any "skip" on the up or down run when mounting a step (indicating worn gears). A certification record of the inspection must be prepared upon completion of the inspection. The record must contain the date of the inspection, the signature of the person who performed the inspection, and the serial number or other identifier of the inspected manlift.

Disclosure of Inspection Certification Records. Employers are to maintain the certification record and make it available to OSHA compliance officers. This record provides assurance to employers, workers, and compliance officers that manlifts were inspected as required by the Standard. The inspections are made to keep equipment in safe operating condition, thereby preventing manlift failure while carrying workers to elevated worksites. These records also provide the most efficient means for the compliance officers to determine that an employer is complying with the Standard.

II. Special Issues for Comment

OSHA has a particular interest in comments on the following issues:

- Whether the proposed information collection requirements are necessary for the proper performance of the Agency's functions, including whether the information is useful;
- The accuracy of OSHA's estimate of the burden (time and costs) of the information collection requirements, including the validity of the methodology and assumptions used;
- The quality, utility, and clarity of the information collected; and
- Ways to minimize the burden on employers who must comply; for example, by using automated or other technological information collection and transmission techniques.

III. Proposed Actions

OSHA is requesting to retain its current burden hour estimate of 37,801 hours.

Type of Review: Extension of a currently approved collection.

Title: Manlifts (29 CFR 1910.68).

OMB Number: 1218-0226.

Affected Public: Business or other for-profits.

Number of Respondents: 3,000.

Frequency: On occasion; Monthly.

Average Time per Response: Varies from 2 minutes (.03 hour) for an employer to disclose the inspection certification record to 1 hour to inspect a manlift.

Estimated Total Burden Hours: 37,801.

Estimated Cost (Operation and Maintenance): $0.
