The ACIMM advises the Secretary of HHS on department activities, partnerships, policies, and programs directed at reducing infant mortality, maternal mortality and severe maternal morbidity, and improving the health status of infants and women before, during, and after pregnancy. The Committee provides advice on how to coordinate federal, state, local, tribal, and territorial governmental efforts designed to improve these outcomes, as well as influence similar efforts in the private and voluntary sectors. With its focus on underlying causes of the disparities and inequities seen in birth outcomes for women and infants, the Committee also advises the Secretary of HHS on the health, social, economic, and environmental factors contributing to the inequities and proposes structural, policy, and/or systems level changes.

The agenda for the September 13–15, 2022, meeting is being finalized and may include the following topics: infant and maternal mortality among American Indian/Alaska Native (AI/AN) women and infants; indigenous health; and federal program updates. In addition to these topics, it is expected that there will be a discussion of recommendations by the ACIMM to the Secretary of HHS on improving birth outcomes among AI/AN mothers and infants, and then a vote on whether to send the recommendations forward to the Secretary of HHS. Agenda items are subject to change as priorities dictate.

Members of the public will have the opportunity to provide written or oral comments. Requests to submit a written statement or make oral comments to the ACIMM should be sent to Vanessa Lee, using the email address above, at least 3 business days prior to the meeting. Public participants may submit written statements in advance of the scheduled meeting by emailing SACIM@hrsa.gov. Oral comments will be honored in the order they are requested and may be limited as time allows.
