

nonrespondents reminding them to submit their report in the electronic instrument. Closeout of mail operations is scheduled for December 2025 but may be extended to allow ample time to receive returned forms if necessary. Response data will be processed as they are received. Upon the close of the collection period, data processing will continue, and records will be edited, reviewed, tabulated, and disseminated.

Statistics from the ABS will be used by government program officials, industry organization leaders, economic and social analysts, business entrepreneurs, and domestic and foreign researchers in business, government and academia. Estimates produced on R&D and innovation may be used to compare R&D costs across industries, determine where R&D activity is conducted geographically, and identify the types of businesses with R&D; to contribute to the Bureau of Economic Analysis (BEA) system of national accounts; to increase investments in research and development, strengthen education, and encourage entrepreneurship; and to compare business innovation in the United States to other countries. Results of the research activities data collected from nonprofit organizations will be used to report updated, valid, and reliable estimates of U.S. nonprofit R&D in National Patterns of R&D Resources and BEA's system of national accounts.

The data collected by ABS will also be incorporated into the National Science Board's biennial report, Science and Engineering Indicators (SEI). The R&D data from the nonprofit module will be reported in periodic publications and for comparisons of R&D efforts. NCSES also anticipates professional associations will use data from the nonprofit module.

Additional examples of data use include:

- The National Women's Business Council to assess the state of women's business ownership for policymakers, researchers, and the public at large.
- Consultants and researchers to analyze long-term economic and demographic shifts, and differences in ownership and performance among geographic areas.
- Individual business owners to analyze their operations in comparison to similar firms, compute their market share, and assess their growth and future prospects.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION:

I. Abstract

U.S. Census Bureau employees, former employees, and applicants may contact the agency's Office of Equal Employment Opportunity (EEO) if they believe they have been subjected to discrimination based on race, religion, color, sex, pregnant/pregnant workers (limitations related to pregnancy, childbirth or related medical conditions), national origin, age (40 or older), genetic information (including family medical history), disability (mental or physical) or retaliation/reprisal. A Census Bureau EEO staff member responsible for obtaining information regarding the allegation(s) of discrimination will record on the Initial Informal Complaint Contact Sheet (Intake Form) the aggrieved party's (“the aggrieved”) personal information, i.e., name, address, telephone numbers, etc., as well as the basis(es) and allegation(s) raised by the aggrieved. Thereafter, an EEO Counselor will be assigned to review the information on the Intake Form and contact the aggrieved to schedule an initial interview. This interview may include but is not limited to: verifying the information on the Intake Form, clearly defining the basis(es) and allegation(s), reviewing the rights and responsibilities of the aggrieved and the agency during the EEO complaint process including the right to representation and anonymity, informing the aggrieved of the applicable time frames, and advising the aggrieved of the availability of Alternative Dispute Resolution (ADR) and EEO counseling, and the overall stages of the complaint process.

Title 29 of the United States Code of Federal Regulations (CFR) part 1614, directs agencies to maintain a continuing program to promote equal opportunity and to identify and eliminate discriminatory policies, practices, or procedures. The Census Bureau is thus required to process complaints of employment discrimination from agency employees, former employees, and applicants for employment with the agency who allege discrimination based on their membership in a protected class, such as, race, religion, color, sex, pregnant/pregnant workers (limitations related to pregnancy, childbirth or related medical conditions), national origin, age (40 or older), genetic information (including family medical history), disability (mental or physical) or retaliation/reprisal for engaging in prior protected activity. Federal agencies must offer pre-complaint “informal” counseling and/or Alternative Dispute Resolution (ADR) to these “aggrieved individuals” (the aggrieved), alleging discrimination by officials of the agency. If the complaint is not resolved during the informal process, the Census Bureau must issue the Notice of Right to File within 15 calendar days document to the aggrieved. This information is being collected for the purpose of processing informal complaints of employment discrimination against the agency on the bases of race, religion, color, sex, pregnant/pregnant workers (limitations related to pregnancy, childbirth or related medical conditions), national origin, age (40 or older), genetic information (including family medical history), disability (mental or physical) or retaliation/reprisal. Pursuant to 29 CFR 1614.105, the aggrieved must participate in pre-complaint counseling to try to informally resolve their complaint prior to filing a formal complaint of discrimination. The information captured on the form will be reviewed by the EEO Counselor assigned to process the informal complaint of alleged discrimination within the parameters established in 29 CFR part 1614. The Initial Informal Complaint Contact Sheet (Form BC–

3006(eff)) will be hosted by the Census Bureau as a Common Form.
