

involved are not available, Toyota believes this to be the only report of an instruction sheet concern. This further tends to confirm that improper installation of a seat belt assembly is unlikely as a result of the missing installation information, and dealer technicians or third-party installers are able to easily obtain the installation information, if needed, from the other sources noted above free of charge.

3. The replacement seat belt assemblies are intended to replace the original equipment seat belts. The owner's manual for each vehicle contains the seat belt usage and maintenance instructions.

Toyota states that it is unlikely that improper use or maintenance of a replacement seat belt would occur because of the missing usage and maintenance instructions. The affected seat belt assemblies are designed to replace the originally equipped seat belts in specific Toyota vehicles. All of the vehicle models for which these replacement seat assemblies were designed were originally equipped with an owner's manual that contains usage and maintenance instructions for these seat belt assemblies. Thus, the vehicle owner has access to the usage and maintenance instructions and would not need to refer to the instruction sheet for this information. In addition, the seat belts packaged with sheets that are only missing the specific seating position information have the correct usage and maintenance instructions.

4. The seat belts comply with all other requirements of FMVSS No. 209.

Toyota says the lack of information on the instruction sheets has no bearing on the materials or performance of the replacement seat belt assembly itself. Thus, the assemblies continue to meet the other performance requirements specified in FMVSS No. 209. There is no impact to performance, functionality, or occupant safety.

5. In similar situations, NHTSA has granted petitions for inconsequential noncompliance relating to the subject requirement of FMVSS No. 209.

Toyota states that NHTSA has previously granted at least seven similar inconsequentiality petitions for noncompliances that it contends are similar to the subject noncompliance. These include: FCA US LLC (84 FR 20948, May 3, 2019); Mitsubishi Motors North America, Inc., (77 FR 24762, April 25, 2012); Bentley Motors, Inc. (76 FR 58343, September 20, 2011);

Hyundai Motor Company (74 FR 9125, March 2, 2009); Ford Motor Company, (73 FR 11462, March 3, 2008); Mazda North American Operations (73 FR 11464, March 3, 2008); and Subaru of America, Inc. (65 FR 67471, November 9, 2000).

In these cases, Toyota argues, NHTSA determined that the noncompliance was inconsequential to motor vehicle safety for reasons that included the following:

(1) The dealer ordering system would make it unlikely that an inappropriate seat belt assembly would be sold for a specific seating position; (2) installers would be able to locate installation instructions from other sources; (3) the usage and maintenance instructions are available in the vehicles owner's manual; and (4) the seat belts are intended to be replacement parts for original equipment designed for specific seating positions. These reasons also apply to the subject Toyota replacement seat belt assemblies.

Toyota's complete petition and all supporting documents are available by logging onto the Federal Docket Management System (FDMS) website at <https://www.regulations.gov> and by following the online search instructions to locate the docket number as listed in the title of this notice.

Toyota concluded that the subject noncompliance is inconsequential as it relates to motor vehicle safety and that its petition to be exempted from providing notification of the noncompliance, as required by 49 U.S.C. 30118, and a remedy for the noncompliance, as required by 49 U.S.C. 30120, should be granted.

NHTSA notes that the statutory provisions (49 U.S.C. 30118(d) and 30120(h)) that permit manufacturers to file petitions for a determination of inconsequentiality allow NHTSA to exempt manufacturers only from the duties found in sections 30118 and 30120, respectively, to notify owners, purchasers, and dealers of a defect or noncompliance and to remedy the defect or noncompliance. Therefore, any decision on this petition only applies to the equipment that Toyota no longer controlled at the time it determined that the noncompliance existed. However, any decision on this petition does not relieve equipment distributors and dealers of the prohibitions on the sale, offer for sale, or introduction or delivery for introduction into interstate commerce of the noncompliant replacement seat belt assemblies under their control after Toyota notified them that the subject noncompliance existed.
