The FAA's authority to issue rules regarding aviation safety is found in Title 49 of the U.S. Code. Subtitle 1, Section 106, describes the authority for the FAA Administrator. Subtitle VII, Aviation Programs, describes in more detail the scope of the agency's authority. This rulemaking is promulgated under the authority described in Subtitle VII, Part A, Subpart I, Section 40103. Under that section, the FAA is charged with prescribing regulations to assign the use of the airspace necessary to ensure the safety of aircraft and the efficient use of airspace. This regulation is within the scope of that authority as it would establish controlled airspace at Chinle Municipal Airport, Chinle, AZ.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION:

I. Background

The Rule makes it an unfair or deceptive act or practice for manufacturers and importers of textile wearing apparel and certain piece goods to sell these items without attaching care labels stating “what regular care is needed for the ordinary use of the product.”¹ The Rule also requires that the manufacturer or importer possess, prior to sale, a reasonable basis for the care instructions,² and allows the use of approved care symbols in lieu of words to disclose care instructions.³

The Commission promulgated the Rule in 1971, and has amended it three times since.⁴ In 1983, the Commission amended the Rule to clarify its requirements regarding the disclosure of washing and drycleaning information.⁵ In 1997, the Commission adopted a conditional exemption to allow the use of symbols in lieu of words.⁶ In 2000, the Commission amended the Rule to clarify what constitutes a reasonable basis for care instructions, and to change the Rule’s definitions of “cold,” “warm,” and “hot” water.⁷

At the same time it amended the Rule in 2000, the Commission rejected two amendments it had proposed earlier. First, the Commission decided not to require labels with instructions for home washing on items that one can safely clean by home washing. The Commission was not convinced that the evidence was sufficiently compelling to justify this change, and concluded that

³ The Rule provides that the symbol system developed by ASTM International, formerly the American Society for Testing and Materials, and designated as ASTM Standard D5489–96c “Guide to Care Symbols for Care Instructions on Consumer Textile Products” may be used on care labels or care instructions in lieu of terms so long as the symbols fulfill the requirements of Part 423. 16 CFR 423.8(g).

the benefits of the proposed change were highly uncertain.⁸ Second, the Commission decided not to establish a definition for “professional wetcleaning” or permit manufacturers to label a garment that one can professionally wetclean with a “Professionally Wetclean” instruction.⁹ The Commission stated that it was premature to allow such an instruction before the development of a suitable definition and an appropriate test method.¹⁰ The Commission added that it would consider such an instruction if a more specific definition and/or test procedure were developed which would provide manufacturers with a reasonable basis for a wetcleaning instruction.¹¹

The International Organization for Standardization (“ISO”) has now developed standards relating to wetcleaning.¹² These standards and other developments may warrant amendments to the Rule regarding wetcleaning.

Finally, ASTM International (“ASTM”) has developed ASTM D5489-07 “Standard Guide for Care Symbols for Care Instructions on Textile Products,” an updated version of the ASTM standard referenced in Section 423.8(g) of the Rule. As noted earlier, that section provides that the symbol system set forth in ASTM Standard D5489-96c “Guide to Care Symbols for Care Instructions on Consumer Textile Products” may be used on care labels or instructions in lieu of words. Some labels use symbols other than those allowed by the Rule. Further, some labels provide care instructions in English and other languages. These developments may warrant amendments regarding the use of symbols, such as updating the Rule to reference the latest ASTM standard, and disclosure of care instructions in multiple languages.

II. Regulatory Review Program

The Commission reviews its rules and guides periodically. These reviews seek information about the costs and benefits of the rules and guides as well as their regulatory and economic impact. These reviews assist the Commission in identifying rules and guides that warrant modification or rescission. Therefore, the Commission now solicits comments on, among other things, the economic impact of, and the continuing need for, the Care Labeling Rule, the benefits of the Rule to consumers purchasing products covered by the Rule, and the burdens the Rule places on firms subject to its requirements.

III. Request for Comment

The Commission solicits comments on the following specific questions related to the Care Labeling Rule:

(1) Is there a continuing need for the Rule as currently promulgated? Why or why not?

(2) What benefits has the Rule provided to, or what significant costs has the Rule imposed on, consumers? Provide any evidence supporting your position.

(b) How would these modifications affect the costs and benefits of the Rule for consumers?

(c) How would these modifications affect the costs and benefits of the Rule for businesses, particularly small businesses?

(7) Provide any evidence concerning the degree of industry compliance with the Rule. Does this evidence indicate that the Rule should be modified? If so, why, and how? If not, why not?

(8) Provide any evidence concerning whether any of the Rule’s provisions are no longer necessary. Explain why these provisions are unnecessary.

(9) What potentially unfair or deceptive practices concerning care labeling, not covered by the Rule, are occurring in the marketplace?

(a) Provide any evidence, such as empirical data, consumer perception studies, or consumer complaints, demonstrating the extent of such practices.

(b) Provide any evidence demonstrating whether such practices cause consumer injury.

(c) With reference to such practices, should the Rule be modified? If so, why, and how? If not, why not?

(10) What modifications, if any, should be made to the Rule to account for current or impending changes in technology or economic conditions?

(a) Provide any evidence supporting the proposed modifications.

(b) How would these modifications affect the costs and benefits of the Rule for consumers and businesses, particularly small businesses?

(11) Does the Rule overlap or conflict with other federal, state, or local laws or regulations? If so, how?

(a) Provide any evidence supporting your position.

(b) With reference to the asserted conflicts, should the Rule be modified? If so, why, and how? If not, why not?

(c) Provide any evidence concerning whether the Rule has assisted in promoting national consistency with respect to care labeling.

(b) How would such harmonization affect the costs and benefits of the Rule for consumers and businesses, particularly small businesses?

(c) Provide any evidence supporting your position.

(13) Should the Commission modify the Rule to address the use of professional wetcleaning? If so, why and how? If not, why not? Provide any evidence supporting your position.

(14) Should the Commission modify the Rule to address the development of ASTM D5489-07 “Standard Guide for Care Symbols for Care Instructions on Textile Products” or the use of symbols other than those set forth in the ASTM Standard D5489-96c “Guide to Care Symbols for Care Instructions on Consumer Textile Products”? SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: In a rapidly changing marketplace, agency regulations can become outdated, ineffectual, and unduly burdensome. Therefore, it is important to systematically review regulations to ensure that they continue to achieve their intended goals without unduly burdening commerce. Since 1992, the FTC's regulatory review program has done just that. The Commission schedules its regulations and guides for review on a ten-year cycle; i.e., all rules and guides are scheduled to be reviewed ten years after implementation and ten years after completion of a regulatory review.
