Endangered and Threatened Wildlife and Plants; Reinstatement of Endangered Species Act Protections for the Gray Wolf (Canis Lupus) in Compliance With Court Order

AGENCY: Fish and Wildlife Service, Interior.

ACTION: Final rule.

SUMMARY: We, the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service (Service), are issuing this final rule to comply with a district court order that vacated our November 3, 2020, rule removing the gray wolf (Canis lupus) from the List of Endangered and Threatened Wildlife. As a result of the court’s order, the regulatory protections under the Endangered Species Act of 1973, as amended (Act), apply to the gray wolf in all or portions of the 45 U.S. States and Mexico where the species was listed at the time we issued the delisting rule. The court order went into effect on February 10, 2022, and is the subject of several consolidated, pending appeals in the Ninth Circuit. While those appeals are pending, the Service is bound by the district court’s order. Thus, this final rule implements the court’s order by correcting the Code of Federal Regulations and officially reinstating threatened status for gray wolf in Minnesota; endangered status for gray wolf in all or portions of the remaining 44 U.S. States and Mexico where the species was listed prior to our November 2020 delisting rule; critical habitat for gray wolf in Minnesota and Michigan; and the rule promulgated under section 4(d) of the Act for gray wolf in Minnesota. Gray wolves in Montana, Idaho, Wyoming, the eastern third of Washington and Oregon, and north-central Utah (collectively, the Northern Rocky Mountains) retain their delisted status and are not affected by this final rule. This rule does not have any effect on the separate listing of the Mexican wolf subspecies (Canis lupus baileyi) as endangered under the Act.

DATES: This action is effective November 3, 2023. However, the court order had legal effect immediately upon its filing on February 10, 2022.

ADDRESSES: This final rule is available on the internet at <https://www.regulations.gov> in Docket No. FWS–HQ–ES–2018–0097.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION:

Background

On November 3, 2020, we published a final rule to remove the gray wolf entities that were listed at that time in the lower 48 United States and Mexico from the Federal List of Endangered and Threatened Wildlife in title 50 of the Code of Federal Regulations (CFR) at 50 CFR 17.11(h) (85 FR 69778; hereafter referred to as “our 2020 delisting rule”). Additional background information on the gray wolf in the lower 48 United States and Mexico and on that rulemaking decision, including previous Federal actions, can be found in our 2020 delisting rule. The rule became effective on January 4, 2021.

Three lawsuits challenging our 2020 delisting rule were filed in the U.S. District Court for the Northern District of California. Defenders of Wildlife v. U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, No. 21–00344 (N.D. Cal.), WildEarth Guardians v. Bernhardt, No. 21–00349 (N.D. Cal.), NRDC v. U.S. Department of the Interior, No. 21–00561 (N.D. Cal.). On February 10, 2022, the district court vacated and remanded our 2020 delisting rule. That decision reinstated Federal protections that were in place prior to the effective date of our 2020 delisting rule. Therefore, gray wolves are once again listed as threatened in Minnesota and endangered in all or portions of 44 U.S. States and Mexico. See Effects of the Rule, below, for a description of the CFR changes resulting from this final rule.

Multiple parties, including the Service, appealed the district court's order to the U.S. Court of Appeals for the Ninth Circuit (Nos. 21–16382, 16383, 16384, 22–15529, 15532, 15534, 15535, 15536, 15537, 15262, 15627, 15628). The parties have been engaged in mediation. On January 26, 2023, the Circuit Mediator issued an order temporarily staying the appeals for administrative purposes until February 2, 2024. During the abeyance, the Service is updating the status review for the gray wolf throughout the lower 48 United States and commencing a stakeholder engagement effort.

Administrative Procedure

To comply with the February 10, 2022, court order, we must reinstate the following:

- Threatened species status for gray wolf in Minnesota,

- Endangered species status for gray wolf in all or portions of 44 U.S. States and Mexico,
- Critical habitat designation for gray wolf in Minnesota and Michigan, and
- A section 4(d) rule for gray wolf in Minnesota.

Therefore, the Director has determined, pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 553(b), that prior notice and opportunity for public comment are impractical and unnecessary. The Director has further determined, pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 553(d), that the agency has good cause to make this rule effective upon publication.

We are also making the following technical revisions to the section 4(d) rule at 50 CFR 17.40(d):

- (1) correcting the misspelling of “Hoodoo Point” in § 17.40(d)(1)(i);
- (2) correcting the misspelling of “the Duluth, Missabe and Iron Range Railroad” in § 17.40(d)(1)(ii);
- (3) substituting a higher quality image of the map of regulatory zones that appears in § 17.40(d)(1)(vi); and
- (4) updating the contact information for providing notifications to the Service in § 17.40(d)(2)(D).

Rather than make these changes in a separate rulemaking, we are combining them with the section 4(d) rule reinstatement for administrative convenience. The Director has determined, pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 553(b), that prior notice and an opportunity for public comment on these revisions are unnecessary because the changes are insignificant in nature and impact and inconsequential to the public.

Effects of the Rule

As a result of the February 10, 2022, district court order, any and all gray wolves in Minnesota are listed as threatened, and any and all gray wolves in all or portions of 44 U.S. States and Mexico are listed as endangered. In the United States, this includes: all of Alabama, Arkansas, California, Colorado, Connecticut, Delaware, Florida, Georgia, Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Kansas, Kentucky, Louisiana, Massachusetts, Maryland, Maine, Michigan, Missouri, Mississippi, North Carolina, North Dakota, Nebraska, New Hampshire, New Jersey, Nevada, New York, Ohio, Oklahoma, Pennsylvania, Rhode Island, South Carolina, South Dakota, Tennessee, Texas, Virginia, Vermont, West Virginia, and Wisconsin; and portions of Arizona, New Mexico, Oregon, Utah, and Washington (as depicted in figure 1 below and our November 3, 2020, delisting rule; 85 FR 69778 at 69782).

The Northern Rocky Mountains distinct population segment (DPS) and the Mexican wolf nonessential experimental population are not part of the listed entities. All map lines are approximations; see 50 CFR 17.11 and 17.84(k) for exact boundaries.

BILLING CODE 4333–15–C

The reinstated regulations at 50 CFR 17.95(a) designate critical habitat for gray wolf in Minnesota and Michigan, and the reinstated regulations at 50 CFR 17.40(d) govern the regulation of gray wolf in Minnesota. The provisions of these regulations are the same as those in the regulations that were removed by our 2020 delisting rule (November 3, 2020; 85 FR 69778 at 69895).

This rule does not affect the status of gray wolf in Montana, Idaho, Wyoming, the eastern third of Washington and Oregon, and north-central Utah. Wolves in these areas retain their delisted status and will continue to be managed by the States and Tribes. Finally, this rule does not affect the gray wolf's Appendix II status under the Convention on International Trade in Endangered Species of Wild Fauna and Flora (CITES).

Future Actions

By February 2, 2024, the Service intends to submit to the Office of the Federal Register a proposed rule concerning the listing status of gray wolves in the lower 48 United States under the Act. Our status determination will be based on the best available information as of the time of publication. If the appeals described earlier in this document nonetheless proceed and the district court's order is reversed, then the Service will take appropriate action to comply with and implement the Court of Appeals' judgment, including, if required, publishing another final rule reinstating the Service's 2020 delisting rule.
