

circumstances. Lessees or permittees submit grazing use information on the Form 4130-5, Actual Grazing Use Report.

BLM uses this information for two specific purposes:

a. To calculate the fees due for the grazing use completed. Fees are due the United States when BLM issues a billing notice and must be paid in full prior to grazing use, except when an allotment management plan (AMP) provides for delayed payment and it is incorporated into a grazing permit or lease. In this latter situation, BLM will issue a billing notice based upon the actual grazing use completed at the end of the grazing period or year (43 CFR 4130.8-1(e)). BLM uses the information it collects to bill for grazing use or to make up a part of the allotment monitoring records. The permittee and lessee must keep accurate and current records for the period of time his/her permit or lease covers. The information collected includes allotment and pasture location of the grazing, the date and numbers of livestock permitted on or removed from the range, and the kind or class of livestock grazed.

b. To obtain information needed to monitor and evaluate livestock grazing use. The purposes of the information are to determine if adjustments in the amount of use are needed, or if other management actions could achieve the desired effects. Knowledge of actual livestock grazing use is essential in the monitoring and the evaluation of the livestock grazing management program. Information on the specific use is essential for an accurate and complete analysis and evaluation of the effects of livestock grazing during particular periods of time, as interrelated with other factors such as climate, growth characteristics of the vegetation, and utilization levels on the plants.

Without this information, the BLM could not fulfill its legal responsibility to manage uses of the public land as required by law. The required information is only available from the grazing operators. Because the actual grazing use that occurs is not constant from year to year, BLM requires information for each grazing season for which grazing use is sought.

Based on BLM's experience administering the activities described above, we estimate the average public reporting burden to complete the required information is 25 minutes per response. Because of the variations in size and complexity or range livestock operations, some of the 15,000 responses may take a few minutes in one recording session to complete the form, while others may take up to 60 minutes combined through several sessions during the grazing year, with each requiring a few minutes to enter the required data. The respondents include permittees and lessees required to furnish a record of the actual grazing use. The frequency of response is annually. We estimate the number of responses per year is 15,000 and a total annual burden of 6,250 hours.

BLM will summarize all responses to this notice and include them in the request for OMB approval. All comments will become a matter of public record.

National Park Service Northeast Region; Notice of Intent To Prepare an Environmental Impact Statement and Hold Public Meetings for Harriet Tubman Special Resource Study

In accordance with section 102 (c) of the National Environmental Policy Act of 1969, the National Park Service (NPS) is preparing an Environmental Impact Statement (EIS) for a Special Resource Study (SRS) of sites associated with Harriet Tubman in Auburn, New York, and Cambridge, Maryland, and possibly elsewhere. This study was mandated by Pub. L. 106-516, "The Harriet Tubman Special Resource Study Act."

Harriet Tubman was born into slavery in Maryland in about 1820. She escaped and returned many times to escort others from bondage, defying fugitive slave laws. Today, Harriet Tubman is widely known for her work as a "conductor" on the Underground Railroad, a role which has been described in legal documents, letters, newspapers, magazines, biographies, and histories. To some extent, this has overshadowed the other accomplishments for which she is less well noted. She had a military career during the Civil War as a scout, a spy, and a nurse, and received military honors at her burial. She also created her own social service institution by establishing a home for elderly poor African Americans, known later as Harriet Tubman Home for the Aged.

The purpose of this Special Resource Study/EIS is to provide Congress with information about the significance, suitability, and feasibility of sites related to Harriet Tubman. The study will develop alternative options for management and interpretation of certain sites. In addition, the study will also examine Tubman-related sites as a potential national heritage area, per the authorizing legislation.

The NPS will hold public meetings in winter 2002-2003, in various locations containing resources associated with Harriet Tubman. The meetings will be announced on the study's Internet Web site, HarrietTubmanStudy.org, in local media, by direct mail, and through known Tubman interest groups. The purpose of these meetings is to obtain written and oral comments concerning Tubman resources, commemoration of Tubman, and issues of possible environmental impact topics. A summary of public scoping will be prepared as part of the draft Environmental Impact Statement.

The draft report of the study, with the draft EIS, is expected to be completed
