Description

In 1987, human remains representing, at minimum, 12 individuals were removed from Site 12-Hn-298 in Henry County, IN. When this site was disturbed during earth-moving activities by Indiana Department of Highways, a salvage excavation was initiated by Ball State University to document the features exposed. The salvage excavations uncovered 12 human burials and 26 other precontact-era cultural features. Radiocarbon dates from the site fall generally in the Late Woodland period (1,000 ± 50, 1430 ± 60, and 1,050 ± 80 RCYBP), with one Late Archaic projectile recovered in back dirt also indicating possibly multiple temporal components. Investigator (Donald Cochran) determined the burials and features represent an Albee phase occupation (ca. 800 to 1200 CE). The human remains have since been curated at Ball State University, Applied Anthropology Laboratories under accession number 87.27. The human remains belong to four juveniles, three female adults, four male adults, and one adult of indeterminate sex. The age of these individuals range from less than 6 months to over 60 years. The 5,600 associated funerary objects are 3,922 faunal elements, 16 animal bone beads, 98 shell beads, 31 animal bone tools, 1,064 floral remains or charcoal samples, 134 ceramics, 27 bifaces or biface fragments, 154 pieces of lithic debitage, 24 unifacial tools, eight cores, one ocher, three celts, 90 fire-cracked rocks, 20 miscellaneous stones, one piece of quartz, one piece of glass, two pieces of metal, one piece of cinder, one plastic button, and two soil samples.

The following information was used to identify the aboriginal land: a final judgment of the Indian Claims Commission or the United States Court of Claims, and the 1818 Treaty of St. Mary's.
