SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: DOE published a Request for Information ("RFI") pertaining to the energy conservation standards for external power supplies on May 20, 2020. 85 FR 30636. The RFI initiated a data collection process to consider whether to amend DOE's energy conservation standards for external power supplies, and whether amending the standards for external power supplies would result in significant energy savings and be technologically feasible and economically justified. DOE requested submission of written comment, data, and information pertaining to these standards by July 6, 2020.

On June 24, 2020, the Association of Home Appliance Manufacturers ("AHAM"), Consumer Technology Association ("CTA"), and Information Technology Industry Council ("ITI"), interested parties in the matter, requested a 30-day extension of the public comment period for the RFI that DOE previously published in the Federal Register on May 20, 2020. (AHAM, CTA, and ITI, EERE-2020-BT-STD-0006, No. 2) The comment period for the RFI closed on July 6, 2020.<sup>1</sup>

After carefully considering this request, DOE has determined that a reopening of the comment period to allow additional time for interested parties to submit comments is appropriate. Therefore, DOE is reopening the comment period and will accept comments until August 24, 2020, to provide interested parties additional time to prepare and submit comments. Accordingly, DOE will consider any comments received by this date, to be timely submitted.

SUMMARY: The Commission seeks comment on a proposal to repeal its trade regulation rule on Care Labeling of Textile Wearing Apparel and Certain Piece Goods as Amended (“Care Labeling Rule” or “Rule”).

DATES: Written comments must be received on or before September 21, 2020. Parties interested in an opportunity to present views orally should submit a request to do so as explained below, and such requests must be received on or before September 21, 2020.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: The Commission finds that using streamlined procedures in this rulemaking will serve the public interest. Specifically, such procedures support the Commission’s goals of clarifying, updating, or repealing existing regulations, while ensuring that the public has an opportunity to submit data, views, and arguments on whether the Commission should repeal the Rule. Because written comments should adequately present the views of all interested parties, the Commission is not scheduling a public hearing or roundtable. However, if any person would like to present views orally, he or she should follow the procedures set forth in the DATES, ADDRESSES, and SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION sections of this document. Pursuant to 16 CFR 1.20, the Commission will use the procedures set forth in this document, including: (1) Publishing this Supplemental Notice of Proposed Rulemaking (“SNPRM”); (2) soliciting written comments on the Commission’s proposal to repeal or amend the Rule; (3) holding an informal hearing (such as a roundtable) if requested by interested parties; (4) obtaining a final recommendation from staff; and (5) announcing final Commission action in a document published in the Federal Register. Any motions or petitions in connection with this proceeding must be filed with the Secretary of the Commission.

I. Introduction

The Care Labeling Rule requires manufacturers and importers of textile wearing apparel and certain piece goods to attach labels to their products disclosing the care needed for the ordinary use of the product.<sup>1</sup> The Rule also requires manufacturers or importers to possess a reasonable basis for care instructions,<sup>2</sup> and allows the use of approved care symbols in lieu of words to disclose those instructions.<sup>3</sup>

The Commission has a long history of seeking comment and considering concerns about the Rule as well as the amendments proposed by the Commission. It promulgated the Rule in 1971 and has amended it three times since.<sup>4</sup> In 1983, the Commission clarified its requirements regarding the disclosure of washing and drycleaning information.<sup>5</sup> In 1997, the Commission adopted a conditional exemption to allow the use of symbols in lieu of words.<sup>6</sup> In 2000, the Commission clarified what constitutes a reasonable basis for care instructions and revised the Rule’s definitions of “cold,” “warm,” and “hot” water.<sup>7</sup>

In 2000, the Commission also rejected two proposed amendments. First, it declined to require marketers to provide instructions for home washing on items that one can safely wash at home. The Commission determined that the evidence was not sufficiently compelling to require such instructions and that the benefits of the proposed change were highly uncertain.<sup>8</sup> Second, the Commission decided not to establish a definition for “professional wetcleaning” or permit manufacturers to label a garment with a “Professionally Wetclean” instruction.<sup>9</sup> The Commission concluded that it was premature to allow such an instruction before the development of a suitable definition and an appropriate test method.<sup>10</sup> However, the Commission stated that it would consider such an instruction if a more specific definition and/or test procedure were developed.<sup>11</sup>

As part of its ongoing regulatory review program, the Commission published an Advance Notice of Proposed Rulemaking (“ANPR”) in July 2011 seeking comment on the economic impact of, and the continuing need for, the Rule; the benefits of the Rule to consumers; and any burdens the Rule places on businesses.<sup>12</sup> The ANPR also sought comment on whether and how the Rule should address professional <sup>9</sup> The Commission initially proposed a definition of professional wetcleaning, stating, in part, that it is a system of cleaning by means of equipment consisting of a computer-controlled washer and dryer, wetcleaning software, and biodegradable chemicals specifically formulated to safely wetclean wool, silk, rayon, and other natural and man-made fibers. Id. at 47271 n. 99.

<sup>10</sup> Id. at 47272. The Commission explained that the definition must either describe all important variables in the process, so that manufacturers can determine that the process would not damage the garment, or be coupled with a specific test procedure that manufacturers can use to establish a reasonable basis for the instruction. Id.

<sup>3</sup> The Rule provides that the symbol system developed by ASTM International, formerly the American Society for Testing and Materials, and designated as ASTM Standard D5489–96c, “Guide to Care Symbols for Care Instructions on Consumer Textile Products,” may be used on care labels or care instructions in lieu of terms so long as the symbols fulfill the requirements of part 423. 16 CFR 423.8(g).
