

the Mount Vernon Trail (MVT). Since there is no water or sewer available at Gravelly Point, the National Park Service currently provides 4 portable toilets between April and November and 2 portable toilets December through March on a rental basis. The NPS would like to replace these rental units with an alternative that is less likely to cause environmental concern from being tipped over, that is fully accessible in accordance with the Americans with Disabilities Act and that have a larger holding capacity than the portable toilets. This would reduce the number of portable toilets needed and the frequency of pumping them. The intent of the proposed two-unit vault toilet comfort station is to provide an environmentally sound and fully accessible comfort station for visitors to this site that will better serve the public until a more permanent solution is found such as water and sewer eventually being brought to Gravelly Point. The overall goal is to meet this visitor need while preserving the viewshed from the GWMP, a property listed on the National Register of Historic Places, protecting the integrity of cultural landscape features such as Governors Grove and preventing interference with ground radar at National Airport (height restrictions). The proposed action is based on observations by National Park Service staff that existing conditions are in need of improvement at this location.

All interested individuals, agencies, and organizations are urged to provide comments on the proposal. The National Park Service, in preparing an EA regarding this matter, will consider all comments received by the closing date.
