

Steering Committee, which are comprised of a broad coalition of organizational representatives who are experts in disease prevention and women's health issues. With oversight by the Advisory Panel, and with input from the Multidisciplinary Steering Committee, WPSI examines the evidence to develop new (and update existing) recommendations for women's preventive services. WPSI's Dissemination and Implementation Steering Committee takes HRSA-approved recommendations and disseminates them through the development of implementation tools and resources for both patients and practitioners.

WPSI bases its recommended updates to the Guidelines on review and synthesis of existing clinical guidelines and new scientific evidence, following the National Academy of Medicine standards for establishing foundations for and rating strengths of recommendations, articulation of recommendations, and external reviews. Additionally, HRSA requires that WPSI incorporate processes to assure opportunity for public comment, including participation by patients and consumers, in the development of its recommendations to the updated Guidelines.

The Existing Guideline States

“Screening for Urinary Incontinence

WPSI recommends screening women for urinary incontinence annually. Screening should ideally assess whether women experience urinary incontinence and whether it impacts their activities and quality of life. The Women's Preventive Services Initiative recommends referring women for further evaluation and treatment if indicated.”

Draft Updated Clinical Recommendation for Public Comment

“Screening for Urinary Incontinence

The Women's Preventive Services Initiative recommends screening women for urinary incontinence annually. Screening should assess whether women experience urinary incontinence and whether it impacts their activities and quality of life. If indicated, facilitating further evaluation and treatment is recommended.”

Discussion of Draft Updated Clinical Recommendation

WPSI recommended several minor updates to the language of this Guideline. First, the word “ideally” is recommended to be removed from the second sentence for brevity, and its removal, if accepted by HRSA, will not substantively change the existing guideline. Second, the final sentence of the clinical recommendation recommends changing the word “referring” to “facilitating” to reflect that clinicians in practice, after screening for urinary incontinence, may decide to treat or manage urinary incontinence as part of standard primary care services or refer to specialists if specialist care is needed. Lastly, WPSI recommended minor edits to the language of the Guideline for the purposes of clarity. These minor edits have no substantive effect on the requirement for coverage without cost-sharing.

Members of the public can view the complete updated draft recommendation, which includes the implementation considerations and research recommendations, by accessing the initiative's web page at <https://www.womenspreventivehealth.org/>.
