

how to report situations where there is an additional principal curtailment received with the payment, and how firms should report if multiple payments are received in a given reporting month.

To reduce ambiguity, the Board has modified the proposed instructions to indicate that firms should report the total payment received in a given month, including principal curtailment received with the payment.

One commenter asked whether principal and interest reversals should be factored into “Actual Payment Amount,” or if it should only capture received amounts.

For clarity, the Board has modified the proposed instructions to indicate that firms should report the total payment received in a given month, net of any reversals. The Board has adopted the proposal to add the “Actual Payment Amount” item to Schedule A, with these modifications, effective for the September 30, 2022, as of date.

The Board proposed to add options for the Bloomberg Short-Term Bank Yield (BSBY) to the “[Adjustable Rate Mortgage] ARM Index” item on Schedules A (item 32) and B (item 29). There were no comments on the proposed changes; however, one commenter did have two questions about this item. First, the commenter noted that the Federal Home Loan Bank of San Francisco announced earlier this year that it will stop publishing all Cost of Fund Indices (COFI). The “ARM Index” item currently contains options for firms to report COFI. The commenter further noted that loans that reference COFI have been updated to reference other indices and sought clarification as to whether firms should continue to report COFI, which was the reference index at origination, or the updated indices. Second, the commenter also pointed out that the “ARM Index” item requires firms to report origination values. The commenter recommended that this be changed so that firms report the current index values, as it would provide more useful information to the Board and be less burdensome on firms, as the current index information is readily available.

The Board notes that COFI has not been retired and firms can continue to report COFI in “ARM Index.” Firms should continue to report legacy loans that reference COFI using the COFI options in “ARM Index.” In addition, origination values allow the Board to adequately assess underwriting decisions at the time of origination, which can inform changes in credit availability over time. The Board acknowledges that receiving current value information would also be beneficial and will consider this suggestion for a future proposal. The Board has adopted the revision as proposed, effective for the September 30, 2022, as of date.

Balances

In general, bank cards allow firms to pay outstanding balances over time, while charge cards must be fully paid off each billing cycle. Some products have features of both bank and charge cards, in that only a portion of the outstanding balance can be rolled over to the next billing cycle. The Board proposed to revise the definition of “Charge cards” (item 3.b) on FR Y-14Q, Schedule M.1 (Quarter-end balances) to specify that if a charge card loan has a pay-over-time feature, then the entire balance must be reported in this item. One commenter said that this revision would cause misalignment between Schedule M and item 6.a. (Credit cards) of FR Y-9C, Schedule C (Loans and Leases), and asked whether this misalignment was intentional.

The definition of item 3.b on FR Y-14Q, Schedule M requires firms to report the applicable balance that is also reported in FR Y-9C, Schedule HC-C, items 6.a and 6.d (Other consumer loans). Therefore, the Schedule M.1 and FR Y-9C, Schedule HC-C instructions would align, and the Board has adopted the revision as proposed, effective for the September 30, 2022, as of date.

Several items on FR Y-14Q, Schedule M.1, reference various FR Y-9C items where applicable balances are reported. The Board proposed to add a reference to FR Y-9C, Schedule HC-C, item 9.a (Loans to nondepository financial institutions) to Schedule M.1, item 2.c (SME cards and corporate cards), as balances required in item 2.c could be reported in item 9.a. One commenter requested that the Board also add references to FR Y-9C, Schedule HC-C, items 2.a (Loans to U.S. banks and other U.S. depository institutions), 2.b (Loans to foreign banks), 3 (Loans to finance agricultural production and other loans to farmers), and 7 (Loans to foreign governments and official institutions) to Schedule M.1, item 2.c, as balances reported in those FR Y-9C items could also meet the definition listed for item 2.c. Relatedly, the commenter noted that for congruency, any FR Y-9C items added to be referenced to Schedule M.1, item 2.c, should also be added to Schedule M.2 (FR Y-9C Reconciliation), item 2 (SME cards and corporate cards).

The Board agrees with the commenter that there could be loans reported in other FR Y-9C items that meet the definition for reporting in Schedule

M.1, item 2.c. Given this, the Board has revised the instructions for item 2.c to add references to FR Y-9C, Schedule HC-C, items 2.a, 2.b, 3, and 7. In response to the comment and for data reconciliation purposes, the Board has also added applicable items to Schedule M.2, item 2. The Board has adopted these revisions effective for the September 30, 2022, as of date.
